Most unsolved murders in Black community

Violence. It has reached unprecedented proportions.

Everyday someone is murdered and the victims of these murders follow no pattern of age, gender or race.

The high volume of murders committed over the last five years has not been solved, which has left members of murdered loved ones struggling to deal with the trauma of such devastating tragedies.

Examples of two unsolved murders are: Lawrence Henry Huff, who was found bound and gagged and shot to death in Pickwick Farms Apartments two years ago; and Johnny Perry, who was found dead in a driveway across from Washington Park five years ago.

To date, both of the victims' families feel justice has yet to be served. They question the real deal. Without it they feel their lives have no sense of closure.

"They (homicide detectives) didn't even look into the case;

that's what I truly feel," said Natalie Wright, Huff's mother. "I would call daily, for awhile, to see if the case was still open or to see the records, but I couldn't get information. I know my son was not involved in any drugs, as rumors have stated. I have my

Blacks feel left out of the Metro loop

By TYSHA HARDY-SELLERS
Staff Writer

In less than a week, changes in Metro will go into effect. Some see the change in the transportation system as a godsend. Others view the change as discriminatory. In the past few weeks, the Office of Mobility and Management, along with a number of supporters, has been adamant about their belief that the changes in the Metro transportation system are beneficial to the community — the whole community. However, some riders, operators, and business owners alike believe that the change is a part of a political agenda—to decrease the convenience for Blacks as they try to access the revitalized downtown, therefore polarizing the Black community.

A metro operator, who wished not to be named in order to protect her job, said that the new plans are a "security measure for whites."

"The new transportation system is keeping people in the Black communities from coming downtown. The system is designed to bring in more people from suburbia who don't usually come downtown. With the new mall city officials believed that changes had to be made to the face of downtown. This system shows that they want to keep that face without color," the operator said.

She continued, "The plan has poor, mostly Blacks, transferring numerous times to reach downtown. I thought that the people who ride the bus more frequently are the ones that you should serve. If 75 percent to 80 percent of bus riders are Black or in other minority groups, then why are we focusing our attention on those who live in suburbia? Why are we focusing our attention on those with one, two or in some cases three vehicles? Why are we focusing our attention on those who chose not to come into the inner city? Why did we

Family blames fire on faulty oven bell

By BARATO BRITT
Recorder Correspondent

On Wednesday, Oct. 9, at around 4 p.m., L'Tanya Ellison had just finished fixing hamburgers for her five children. After eating, she and her daughter placed what was left into their small toaster oven then went off to rustle up her other children for what was supposed to be a filling meal. After returning from a parent-teacher meeting at school No. 27, the family returned to their Caravelle Commons Cooperative to find the unit ablaze. The lower level of her home had been completely destroyed and what was not was soon salvaged by observers.

An exceptional resident, the 34-year-old confidently told authorities her story explaining how the oven, which has a bell that serves as a reminder, failed to go off. After conferring with office manager, Kim Harris, and a fire report later, Ellison found herself without a home.

According to the fire report, the oven was left on causing the fire and some $40,000 worth of damages. Ellison contends that faulty oven bell was the real problem and not neglect on her part.

"The insurance man said that if there was a fault in the oven then they would take care of the dam-

Chief Robert Allen

IPD's Allen replies to FOP request

During a Tuesday afternoon press conference, interim Indianapolis Police Chief Robert Allen issued a statement because the Fraternal Order of Police called for the officers not charged with crimes through the grand jury investigation in the Aug. 27 S. Meridian Street brawl be returned to street duty assignments.

"For several reasons I believe it is important that these officers remain on administrative duty until the completion of the department's internal investigation," said Allen.

"We are close to concluding the department's internal investigation. As I stated several days ago, we anticipated the internal investigation would take approximately two weeks. Let me reiterate that the grand jury testimony is sealed and unavailable to the internal affairs investigations," Allen said.

Patrolmen Steve Randall and Jon Daggy were returned to active street duty.

Service providers enlisted for Westside project

Edward R. Jagannathan, executive director of the Indianapolis Public Housing Agency, announced the final cap to one of the initial segments of the massive Westside redevelopment project known as Hope VI recently. Eight social service providers have signed contracts to offer specific services to residents of the housing units that will be built over the next four years.

own theories on the case, but there is still not enough evidence. I raised so much hell for awhile, but I stopped because I was frightened for my other son who was shot a year after his brother. This thing is really eating away at me. I have offered a reward, but nothing has happened. This whole thing was a nightmare and it's being pushed under the rug, under these circumstances I will never let go."

Stephanie Ballew, an acquaintance of Perry's feels the same way.

"The hardest part of the whole thing is not knowing what happened," Ballew said. "I was upset when this happened. The day Johnny was killed he had talked to the girls, everything was all right; six hours later, he was dead. He worked two jobs; he wasn't into drugs. I feel it was a case of mistaken identify. I would really love to know what happened, to put my mind at ease."

The murders of Huff and Perry only scratch the surface of the numerous murderers which have occurred in Indianapolis. LaShauna Bates, who was missing for months, was finally found dead, but there have been no arrests. More than two years ago, Sheila Tabari was found dead in her car, while her killer remains at large.

"Cases are solved because things fall into place," Indianapolis Police Department Capt. James Wyatt said. "In the Black community there can be 30 people standing around, but nobody will say anything. People do not get involved until it happens to them. It doesn't matter what community a crime occurs in — we do what we do. A lot of families think that a case is not solved because the detective is not doing his job, you have to be able to prove theories, you have to have evidence. Because a case is unsolved does not mean the investigator did not go the extra mile. Every case is given the same amount of attention."

At what point is a case considered closed?

"You don't really stop looking for leads, you run out of clues, but you never stop," said R.C. Green, a homicide detective who has been with IPD for 34 years. "You work on a case 24 hours a day, after you have done all that an got nothing, you may think of something, reread notes and leads do redevelop. As soon as you have something to work with, you begin again 'shaking the bushes.'"

Green, says that 90 percent of the time he uses his street knowledge and develop a rapport with people to obtain answers during a murder investigation.

When a homicide detective is called to a murder scene, they interview individuals from the crime scene and the forensic people are on hand to dust for finger prints, measurements and other possible clues. Then its the detectives' job to obtain personal information about the victim and who were the last individuals they encountered, which according to Green is usually where the most important information is uncovered.

Wilma Riggs, who has also lost a loved one to violence is still unconvinced.

"Why is it that a white person is murdered in Broadripple and a Black person on 25th and Central, who do you think's murder is going to take priority?" The white person of course. I am so sick to death of this blatant double standard in our community."

Cathy Myers who is a member of the local

Survivors of Homicide Support Group has come to the same conclusion as Riggs.

"Many of the white victims I talk with praise the detectives that worked their case, but the Black survivors have a different story," Myers said. "These survivors feel as though there is no justice and the killer could still be a threat to their family. I suggest that families get with detectives and give information. I understand that it's hard to sustain interest in a crime over a long period of time when there's no evidence. I suggest that families continue to be assertive, get with detectives and share information that could possible result in a conviction. These families can't heal without closure."

Statistics from IPD's Crime Analysis Report show this crime trend: In 1991, 95 offenses occurred, 73 cases were cleared and the number of arrests were 67. In 1992, 87 offenses occurred, 54 cases cleared with 48 number of arrests. In 1993, 69 offenses were committed, 72 cases cleared and 50 individuals were arrested. In 1994, 108 offenses were committed, 65 of those cases cleared and there were 67 arrests. And in 1995, 99 offenses were committed, 65 of those cleared and 65 individuals arrested.

These statistics include murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, which is defined in the Uniform Crime Reporting Program as the willful (nonnegligent) killing of one human being by another. The classifications of this offense, as for all other Crime Index offenses, is based solely on police investigation, as opposed to the determination to a court, medical examiner, coroner, jury or other judicial body. Not included in the count for this offense classification are deaths caused by negligence suicide or accident, justifiable homicides and attempts to murder or assaults to murder, which are scored as aggravated assaults.

An arrest is "cleared by arrest" or solved for crime reporting purposes when at least one person is arrested or charged with the commission of the offense and turned over to the commission of the court for prosecution (whether following arrest, court summons, or police notice, although no physical arrest is made, a clearance by arrest can be claimed when the offender is a person under 18 and is cited to appear in juvenile court or before other authorities).

Several crimes may be cleared by the arrest of one person or the arrest of many persons may clear only one crime.

However in certain situations, law enforcement is not able to follow the three outlined steps under "clearance by arrest" to clear offenses known to them. Many times all leads have been exhausted and everything possible has been done in order to clear cases.

"Sometimes it's a matter of not getting information and you can't give families a minute by minute update, but we will try to make arrangements with that family and talk," Wyatt said. "These are the kinds of things I try to explain to families, but it doesn't do any good, nothing will do any good until someone is convicted. Crimes happen around the clock, but if it is possible we try to contact families to let them know an arrest was made, but things do fall though the cracks."

Wyatt encourages families to call the homicide division and speak with him and other lieutenants to discuss their cases.

build a mall that only those in a certain pay range can shop frequently? Why? Because downtown for years had a multicultural face. With this privatization it is taking on another. It's too bad that we as African Americans are getting hurt in the process once again. I hope we can change this," she said.

Jay Schneider, a concerned rider, agreed with the operator and said the reorganization is a covert attempt of keeping Blacks from downtown.

"The changes to be made on Nov. 10 are describing a pretty obvious attempt to reroute the routes that frequent Black neighborhoods and travel downtown. Many people can't get to work. Downtown is a hub for minorities. With the new changes the busses will be going through high crime areas late at night," he said.

The youth program worker continued, "Earlier this year we heard about police rousting kids at the bus stops downtown. Circle Centre security usually disperses the kids. It's unfair. These are the same kids that will end up paying for Circle Centre. Now they nor their parents can't access the mall or downtown in general without traveling to a number of points first," Schneider said.

"The Office of Mobility Management claims that they are informing the public about the changes. But they send a flash (a notice to Metro riders about upcoming changes) two to three days before changes happen. Most of the time the flashes are untimely and not evenly distributed. They also claim that they have put notices on buses about the meetings. The first notice came the day after the meeting took place. Do they really want us to know what's going on? Also, we are given a telephone number to call if we need information. Do you know how hard it is to reach anyone there? The happenings of Nov. 10 is not to reduce spending it's to reduce the number of Blacks downtown. There are no savings here, just poor service," he said.

The Director of Mobility Management, Mark Stanley, defends

the changes. "You can sort of say that the current system is discriminatory," said Stanley. He continued, "With the current system almost everyone has to come downtown which contributes to unnecessary time that is wasted. Under the new plan the routes will still travel the same streets and the service downtown will be more convenient. For example, a person who lives on Sherman must travel downtown first, then transfer to another bus to make it to work in Park 100. Another person I talked to, Eric Buchannon, said that he lives on the Eastside near Franklin and 38th Street. He gets on route 39 (E. 38th Street) which has to travel downtown. He then takes route 8 (E. Washington) to get to his destination near Washington Square Mall. So that young man has to get up at 8:30 every morning to be a work at noon. Under the new plan that trip will take less than 30 minutes," Stanley said.

Stanley emphasized the need of crosstown service, a need that was not fulfilled through the existing system.

"A lot of employment opportunities are happening away from downtown. The outside areas of the city are developing rapidly and the current system is not keeping up with the growth of that area. It's not servicing it well. There are a lot of Eric Buchannon's out there. We have tried to talk to as many people as possible. The changes that we are instituting are from suggestions that people from all walks of life have inputted," Stanley said.

OMM says that the reorganization service is expected to cut public transit costs, reduce duplication in service and lower maintenance costs while improving convenience for public transit customers.

The plan features a modified downtown loop, linked routes that travel crosstown, neighborhood circulator routes, vanpooling and more connection sites.

The modified downtown loop will travel on Washington, West, Ohio and Pennsylvania streets. There will be six routes that will still go downtown. They include routes 5, 6, 18, 22, 27 and 28. All eight express routes will have the same service.

Routes that are to be linked include: East Washington (8) and West Washington (9); 21st Street (21) and Mars Hill (24); College (17) and Beechcrest (12); English (10) and Park 100 (37); Prospect (14) and Castleton (19); and Greenwood (31) and Michigan (34).

Routes with new crosstown service include: East 34th and Riverside; Ft. Harrison: East Michigan and New York; East 16th Street and West 16th Street; 10 Street; 16th Street circulator; Keystone Avenue; 30th Street; Lafayette Square and East 38th; Eastside circulator; King Park circulator; and 86th Street circulator.

Express routes to be replaced by van pools include: Edgewood (41), Keystone (43), South Meridian (46) and Decatur (49). Chapel Hill (40), Castleton (44), Harcourt (47) and Mitthoefer (48) will have the same coach service.

Stanley said that his office will be posting additional flashes and conduct a promotional and educational campaign about the changes. Also, during the first week of the changed service, passengers will be given free transfer tickets.

"I think that some people are just used to the downtown loop although it can be inconvenient. We have formed a volunteer taskforce to answer questions. They are riding on the buses and are in our Transit Store to assist those with any questions or concerns. Also we have created color coded maps, made the names of the routes more concise and created color-code signage to make the system more customer friendly. Once they are aware and secure in what we are doing everything will work out fine," Stanley added.

The reorganization is designed by Forsythe & Associates, a firm hired by the city to operate OMM. For more information about the reorganization plan call the city Office of Mobility management at 327-7539 at the Transit Store at 635-3344.

ages," she said. "The cooperative manager told me they could sue me but I have nothing to take."

Ellison had kept up with the unit to the best of her ability for almost a year, but a terrible accident forced her and her children out on the streets.

"I've gone to Red Cross and the Trustee's Office but it is really frustrating because I have to get my kids somewhere," said Ellison. "Right now I'm just taking it day to day."

According to Harris, who shares a friendly rapport with the victim, the lease which Ellison signed specifically states that any resident that causes a set amount of damage is subject to eviction.

"We are a cooperative," said Harris. "Even if I was in charge I would have to follow the rules as they are stated in our occupancy agreement which she signed. My property manager will not allow her to return."

The management company in question, Triangle Associates, also argues that it is fully within its province in regards to Ellison's eviction. Daryl Marshall, in charge of the Caravelle Co-Op, was not available for comment at the time of this article.

According to the occupancy agreement, the management company obviously has the right to determine Ellison's future with the co-op. However, the day of the fire, Ellison was told by members of the co-op board that she was assured a place to stay.

"When it happened they even told the fireman doing the report that I would have another unit, but here I am," said Ellison.

Approximately nine years ago, another resident had suffered the same predicament but with a different story. Her son had been tampering with a cigarette lighter and had caused similar damage. That same resident was relocated to another unit and is currently a member of the Caravelle Co-Op Board. She also was not available for comment and will remain anonymous.

Mary Clifton, a resident of the co-op for 18 years, was a witness to both incidents calls Ellison's eviction discrimination.

"You can't have two different standards," said Clifton. "That person was put into a unit but Tanya is homeless. If they wanted to be fair then they should let her have another unit or put them both out."

Currently, Clifton has taken it upon herself to help take care of Ellison's five children.

What does the future hold for L' Tanya Ellison and her children? Currently living off an income of about $200 per month, Ellison finds herself moving from place to place making sure her kids are adequately taken care of.

"I guess it's kind of a blessing," she says. "But I'm getting kind of tired of it."

"ON NOV. 5TH, I'M VOTING FOR MY KIDS."

Every day of your child's life depends on whether or not you vote.

And, whether or not you vote for Democrats.

If you don't, the Newt Gingrich Republicans may get the chance to continue cutting, slashing and eliminating the things that are important to you and your family. They've already voted to cut school lunches. Risking child immunization programs and cutting Head Start.

You've got the power to stop them.

The Democratic Party is meeting the challenges of raising a family, protecting our values. They've pumped nearly $800 million more into Head Start • Expanded Child Immunization • Protected the Health Care of millions • Supported School Lunches

• They're reducing crime in public housing • Working to prevent teen pregnancy • Reducing violence and drug abuse in schools • Passed the toughest, smartest Crime Bill ever.

Julia Carson For Congress

We are your future! Julia Carson: The Heart to Care!

Focusing on the needs of our children is the only way our country can face the problems of today and the needs of the future.

All kids deserve the right to be kids. They shouldn't have to worry about going to school hungry or sick, and shouldn't get an inferior education once they get there.

TOGETHER, WITH JULIA CARSON, WE CAN SOLVE A LOT OF OUR PROBLEMS IN SUCH KEY AREAS AS:

Education

• The social problems of our country, from teenage pregnancy to crime, are most effectively addressed through the education of our young people from an early age.

• I believe we must invest in programs like Head Start which provides high-quality preschool instruction to young children from low-income families.

• I believe public schools need to recognize that computer access is critical to learning. We must link every classroom to the information super-highway by the year 2000.

• All families should be able to send their kids to college. I support making college education available to all young people regardless of family financial background.

Making Work Play

• Hard-working Americans should earn wages sufficient to support a family. Too many families are financially strapped even though they work one or more full-time jobs. As your Congresswoman, I will work to enact laws that guarantee a living wage for all hard-working people.

Welfare:

• I support welfare reform that tackles the real issues of providing jobs at living wages, along with health care and child-care for children of working families. We must support the transition from dependence to independence.

Health Care

• Our current system of providing health care is focused on profit for a few at the expense of high quality treatment for all. As a result, too many Americans cannot afford high quality health care. I support reform of our current system of health care toward a system of guaranteeing all Americans access to low-cost high quality medical treatment.

Crime

• Spending billions of dollars to build more and more prisons has worked to the benefit of tough talking politicians, but it has proved to be a dismal failure at reducing crime. Although many criminals must be imprisoned, we cannot keep throwing so many salvageable young people in jail, where they become hardened criminals ready to prey on us all when they are released. I agree with the many law enforcement experts who state that the best way to protect law-abiding citizens is to provide non-criminal alternatives, such as teen education, job programs, and drug and alcohol counseling, to young people who are risk of turning to a life of crime.

Julia Carson's background:

The experience to Lead!

• Twice elected Center Township Trustee.

• Elected six times to the Indiana Legislature (first as State Representative and then State Senator).

• Twice chosen as "Woman of the Year" by the Indianapolis Star.

• Wide-ranging experience including foundry-worker, small business-owner, corporate executive, and "natural mother of two, surrogate mother to many".

Will our 100,000 come alive Nov. 5?

Indy, Come Alive, November Five! Because of the new Motor Voter Law, nobody really knows how many are registered to vote in Indianapolis. The Marion County Election Board says registration is at an all time high - 501,579. Of that, at least 100,000 African-Americans could be registered to vote - another record!

The big question: Will our community's 100,000 votes come out? Our 100,000 votes will make a difference in this watershed, important election! November Five will, in some measure, define the State of our Indianapolis Black Community.

The race for President is over, as Clinton's got it locked up. He's not the reason you Come Alive November Five.

You know the importance of the elections for a new Congresswoman and a new Governor. You know the stakes are high. You really know what the issues are. And you know what you must do! So, Come Alive November Five and do it!

When you Come Alive November Five, the first thing you do when you enter that voting machine — VOTE THE JUDGES FIRST!

It's time to level the playing field in the courts downtown. Three Black women, amply seasoned and qualified are running for judge. Incumbent Judge Cynthia Ayres has served with distinction and has earned re-election and your vote!

We all know the integrity, quality and experience of Z. Mae Jimison. She has also earned the support of this community, and your vote!

Tanya Walton-Pratt is an experienced lawyer with seasoning as a pro tem judge. She's also deserving of our community's support.

Ayres, Jimison, Walton-Pratt. Those are the only judges you need to vote for. Pull down

Black scout leaders needed

For 80 years, the Hoosier Capital Girl Scout Council has occupied a unique position in the hierarchy of youth-serving organizations in central Indiana. Helping young ladies to be their best while inspiring them to grow has always been the heart of Girl Scouting.

The Hoosier Capital Girl Scout Council recognizes that its charge is to serve the entire Indiana community with diversity represented in scout leadership paralleling diversity in the girls that it serves.

This campaign is an outreach to build awareness for the need and to attract African-American women who would be interested in girl scout leadership.

the levers for those three and let the rest of the city/county take care of the rest!

If you live in Wayne, Warren, Washington, Pike and Lawrence Townships, Republicans have dominated township government and finances there. They've instituted policies that have harmed African-Americans.

When you Come Alive November Five, your vote will level the playing field. By voting for African-Americans and non-Republicans on these township boards, you'll help break the GOP monopoly and finally give a break to our people.

Our 100,000 votes can make a difference November Five. The stakes are high. Will you rise to the challenge and Come Alive November Five?

I've done my part, it's now up to you!

Heard in the street

In an unprecedented action, the Star-News apologized because their Sunday political gossip column, "Behind Closed Doors," beat up on Mayor Goldsmith more than other candidates. The apology came because a mysteriously influential Star-News reader complained.

Star-News Executive Editor Frank Capteron claimed it wasn't "a member of Goldsmith's family, the campaign, or anyone else with a stake in the election" who complained.

I suspect that mysterious, powerful Star-News reader was either Publisher Eugene Pulliam or board member Dan Quayle. They undermined the credibility of their own paper. Many feel the Star-News is an openly biased newspaper and this episode only reinforces those beliefs.

I'm told the governor's office, pressured the state Civil Rights Commission to de-emphasize their Hate Crimes Seminar and appearance by civil rights activist Morris Dees. Why should Gov. Bayh fear the criticism of ultra-conservative activists?

In an exclusive interview on the first anniversary of Channel 53's Six Thirty PM, Gov. Bayh seemed to hedge on speculation that he's running for the U.S. Senate in 1998. In my interview, Bayh threw out hints that he might not!

Remember, please, please, please, Come Alive November Five and Vote!

Alvin Ailey: A Life in Dance

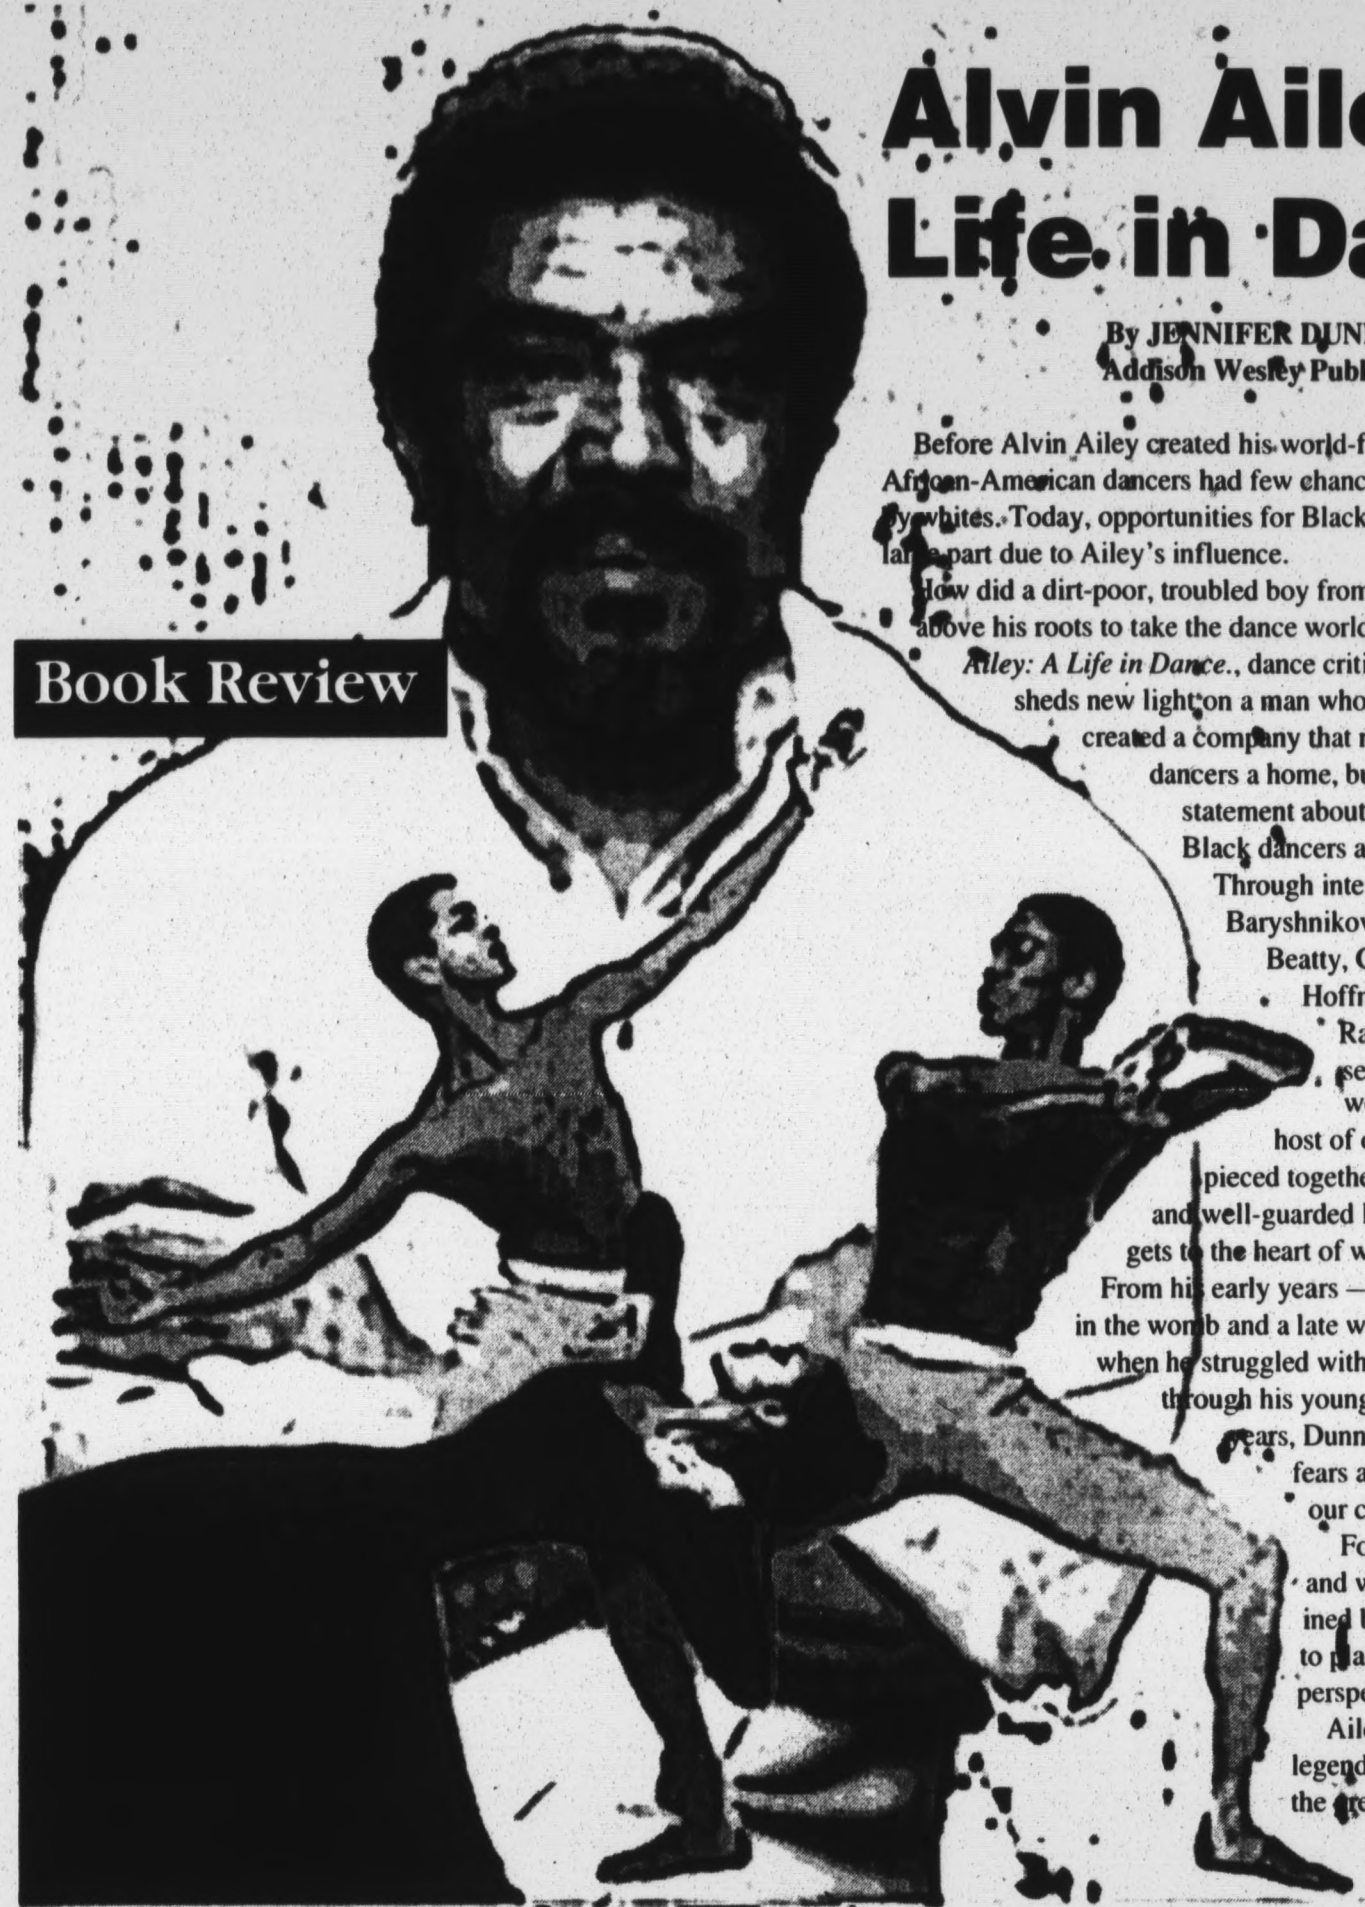

By JENNIFER DUNNING
Addison Wesley Publishing

Before Alvin Ailey created his world-famous dance company, African-American dancers had few chances in a world dominated by whites. Today, opportunities for Black dancers abound, in large part due to Ailey's influence.

How did a dirt-poor, troubled boy from Rogers, Texas rise above his roots to take the dance world by storm? In Alvin Ailey: A Life in Dance, dance critic Jennifer Dunning sheds new light on a man who, against all odds, created a company that not only gave Black dancers a home, but also made a powerful statement about the neglected gifts of Black dancers and their cultural history. Through interviews with Mikhail Baryshnikov, Judith Jamison, Talley Beatty, Clive Barnes, Dustin Hoffman, Lena Horne, Tony Randall, Sidney Poitier, several of the dancers who worked with Ailey, and a host of others, Dunning has pieced together the previously private and well-guarded life of Alvin Ailey and gets to the heart of what drove his success. From his early years — he was malnourished in the womb and a late walker; to his teens — when he struggled with his sexuality; and through his young adult life and final years, Dunning reveals the passions, fears and drive behind one of our cultural icons. For the first time, the life and work of Ailey is examined by a writer uniquely able to place him and his legacy in perspective. Ailey's story is the stuff of legend. His Revelations, one of the great American dance

Indianapolis' Brown takes leaps and bounds

By MONYCA D. COLEMAN
Staff Writer

The artistic talent in Indianapolis is limitless but while musical acts often take the spotlight, there are several young theater performers who are making their move to the big time.

Sherri Brown is one young talent who is not waiting to be discovered. She is doing her own networking to create opportunities for herself. Two productions Brown has been involved in include Dreamgirls and Guidance.

"I've always been a ham, and loved being in front of the camera," Brown said.

Brown began acting full time this year after she decided she just couldn't take her "real" job anymore. "I would walk into work two hours late and when my boss said something about it I'd just shrug it off. After feeling that way for a while I decided to just quit," Brown said.

Since her new found freedom, Brown has performed with her church South Calvary Missionary Baptist and has been in two shows at the Indianapolis Civic Theatre. She is also on her way to Louisville, Ky. where she will appear in Holly Jolly Holidays at the Derby Dinner Playhouse.

"I prefer theater over movies, because in theater you can hear the audience's response," Brown said. "In film you don't know the audience's reaction. Plus, I like for people to come up to me after the performance and recognize my work."

Many have asked Brown why

Exciting changes for Rolonda

Exciting changes are in the air as Rolonda marks its fourth season. Hosted by veteran journalist Rolonda Watts, Rolonda is doing more of what it has traditionally done so well — relationship driven, topical hours.

The show also is capitalizing on the host's interviewing skills and experience by going off-set for exclusive face-to-face conversations relevant to today's news.

The show's overall approach makes each hour not only entertaining but also a genuine "event," in which particular emphasis is placed on "listening" to personal stories and then offering messages — positive solutions of learning, inspiration and hope.

Under the supervision of new co-executive producers Cyndi Wolfman-Scott and David Scott this season, Rolonda promises to offer a broader array of show topics that speak to the heart and soul of family life in America.

Issues of self worth, trust, and community empowerment are all dealt with in a forum-like setting that encourages parents and children to watch together.

"Our audiences are seeking constructive advice on family issues, on relationships, on matters of self-esteem," says Watts. "They don't have time for salacious topics, and frankly, neither do our panelists. And they certainly don't want to be ambushed or set up. We want them to feel as if there is someone out there who understands, someone who empathizes with what they are going through."

To get a clear and accurate portrayal of what America is and what it wants to be, Watts is utilizing her journalistic talents. As she did last year in an acclaimed exclusive meeting at Riker's Island Penitentiary with Awilda Lopez, the crack-addicted Bronx woman convicted of beating daughter Elisa Izquierdo to death last fall, Watts will conduct intimate, candid conversations with people making news.

classics, is said to have been seen by more people than any other work in dance history. Yet, the small-town culture that is at the heart of his finest work was absorbed by a child growing up in devastating poverty, neglected by a loving but exhausted mother who raised him alone. Aware of his homosexuality from his teens, Ailey lived and worked in the unusually accepting world of theater but sometimes hid his sexuality as if he had never left his conservative family and southern church. An athlete in his youth and a member of a profession that idealizes physical perfection, Ailey abused his body with alcohol and later drugs. Surrounded by admiring friends, he felt alone. Yet against great odds, Ailey pulled the pieces of this life together to create a passionate mosaic of art and dance, giving birth to an indispensable institution that continues to play a joyous, vibrant role throughout the world. Dunning shows us how Ailey took the essence of his experiences — whether from driving rhythmic music that poured from local Dew Drop Inn on hot Saturday nights, or the simple motion of men beating the water to drive back snakes during his baptism — and translated them into masterpieces.

Alvin Ailey: A Life in Dance, is filled with stunning photographs and hundreds of interviews with those who knew him well, it is the story of a man who wove his life and his culture into his dance-and into the fabric of America itself.

Sisters and Lovers
By CONNIE BRISCOE
Ballantine Publishing

Coming off a widely successful first novel, with over 100,000 hardcovers in print, a six-figure paperback reprint sale, a CBS mini-series in the works and over six months on the national bestseller lists, Connie Briscoe's Sisters and Lovers is now available in paperback.

Sisters and Lovers tells the story of three sisters: Beverly, Charmaine, and Evelyn. All three live in Washington, D.C. and have reached their personal breaking points. Beverly, 29, is recently single, and perennially disappointed. Evelyn, 37, is educated and ambitious. She has a husband, two great kids and a house in the suburbs. But the secure world she has built for herself is quite possibly about to crumble. And Charmaine, 35, struggles to support her son as well as her useless husband, all the while wondering what either of her sisters has to complain about.

As this frank and funny novel unfolds, Beverly will find and lose more men than she'd like to admit. Charmaine will kick her husband out and let him back in more times than she'd like her sisters to know about, and Evelyn will try to hide from her sisters the fact that all these years, her husband isn't Mr. Perfect. What these women ultimately discover is that a sister is one of the few things you can really rely on in life.

VARIOUS AUTHORS
John Muir Publications.

Written by kids and for kids, this book introduces young readers to a unique part of America's cultural tradition. Students in the Westridge Young Writers Workshop have teamed up to produce this unique book about African-American art, food, history, folk stories, famous people and music — all from a kid's point of view. Readers will learn how to make African crafts. They'll discover important African-American inventors. They'll even find out how to celebrate Kwanzaa. With more than 150 illustrations and photos, this book won't just enlighten readers, it will entertain them as well.

BROWN

she hasn't ventured to New York, Los Angeles or Chicago to find more exposure. Her answer is simple: "I don't want to starve."

Away from work, Brown enjoys spending time with her family and friends. She also works part time for a temporary agency.

"That makes me work at my craft that much harder," Brown said. "I will not wait for my ship to come in. I will swim out to it."

Brown says she never has experienced the constant rejection that most actresses face.

"I once lost a part to a younger female. The producers said they wanted a younger-looking 20-something," said Brown. "But I don't let those types of things get me down. I know something else will come along."

Proving that she is a survivor, Brown, was once in an abusive marriage. She has managed to turn her life around and has been divorced for four years.

"Not to justify the situation, but in a way that experience taught me how to stand on my own two feet. I used to be really timid. It taught me initiative."

Seneka Johnson, who is a good friend of Brown's and appeared in Dreamgirls with her, has this to say regarding the rising star: "Sherri is a brilliant actress that is on the rise. She has a lot of creative energy and is fun to work with. She's not cutthroat at all and is willing to help others."

Brown says her spiritual base helps keep her motivated.

"I give all the glory to God. I just live life because I know a brighter day is ahead. The blessings are constantly coming."

In looking for ways to solve problems and prevent further tragedies like Elisa's, the Rolanda show will speak to people who have made terrible mistakes as well as those who have triumphed over their demons.

"We're looking to find ways to deal with life in America," says Watts. "All the challenges, obstacles, pitfalls and joys. The only way to find solutions is to speak directly to America, to encourage communities to get together for the sake of the children. Ideally, talk shows should act as our era's picket fences, our clotheslines, the place where ideas and thoughts are exchanged. We want to be that place."

Cheap is the way

By MONYCA D. COLEMAN
Staff Writer

In a perfect world shoppers would be able to walk into any store, pick out exactly what they want, and buy it regardless of price or guilt over spending money that is already spoken for.

In a perfect world.

However, this isn't a perfect world and most consumers have to watch their spending or they could end up in serious trouble.

Mary Hunt — creator and editor of Cheap-skate Monthly, a newsletter that helps overspenders watch their pennies and live within their financial means — was one such problem spender who had incurred over $100,000 in debts.

Through careful planning and cutting several corners, Hunt paid her debt within 10 years and is now enjoying a lifestyle that is within her financial means.

"It is not that people don't make enough money," says Hunt, who has no formal education in finance or journalism. "It is, people don't know where their money goes."

Hunt recommends that those trying to improve their finances, write down all their spending over a two month period of time. Then go back and plug up the holes that are causing "money leaks."

"I want to teach people how to create a spending plan. I don't like the word budget because it is so confining," Hunt says.

Many times, the same people that will write Hunt with money problems that are consuming them will come back with several excuses as to why they can't stay on track.

"I hold up mirrors to people," said Hunt, while sitting in the Adam's Mark Hotel lobby. "They can see the problem then it is up to them to make the necessary changes."

Hunt also cites a lack of discipline as a contributing factor to people's money problems.

"Many times people don't plan ahead. You have to be your own parent and discipline yourself. Saying 'I don't have enough time' is just an excuse," Hunt says.

Hunt went on to say, some people don't overspend and are living healthy financial lives, except that they do not save. Those types of individuals may just need to incorporate a savings plan into their lifestyles.

"To go through the hassle of always asking yourself, 'Do I really need this, Do I already have something at home that will do just as well? Or am I willing to wait 24 hours before I purchase this product?' is a real pain. And a lot of times it keeps me from spending money on stuff I otherwise don't need," says Hunt.

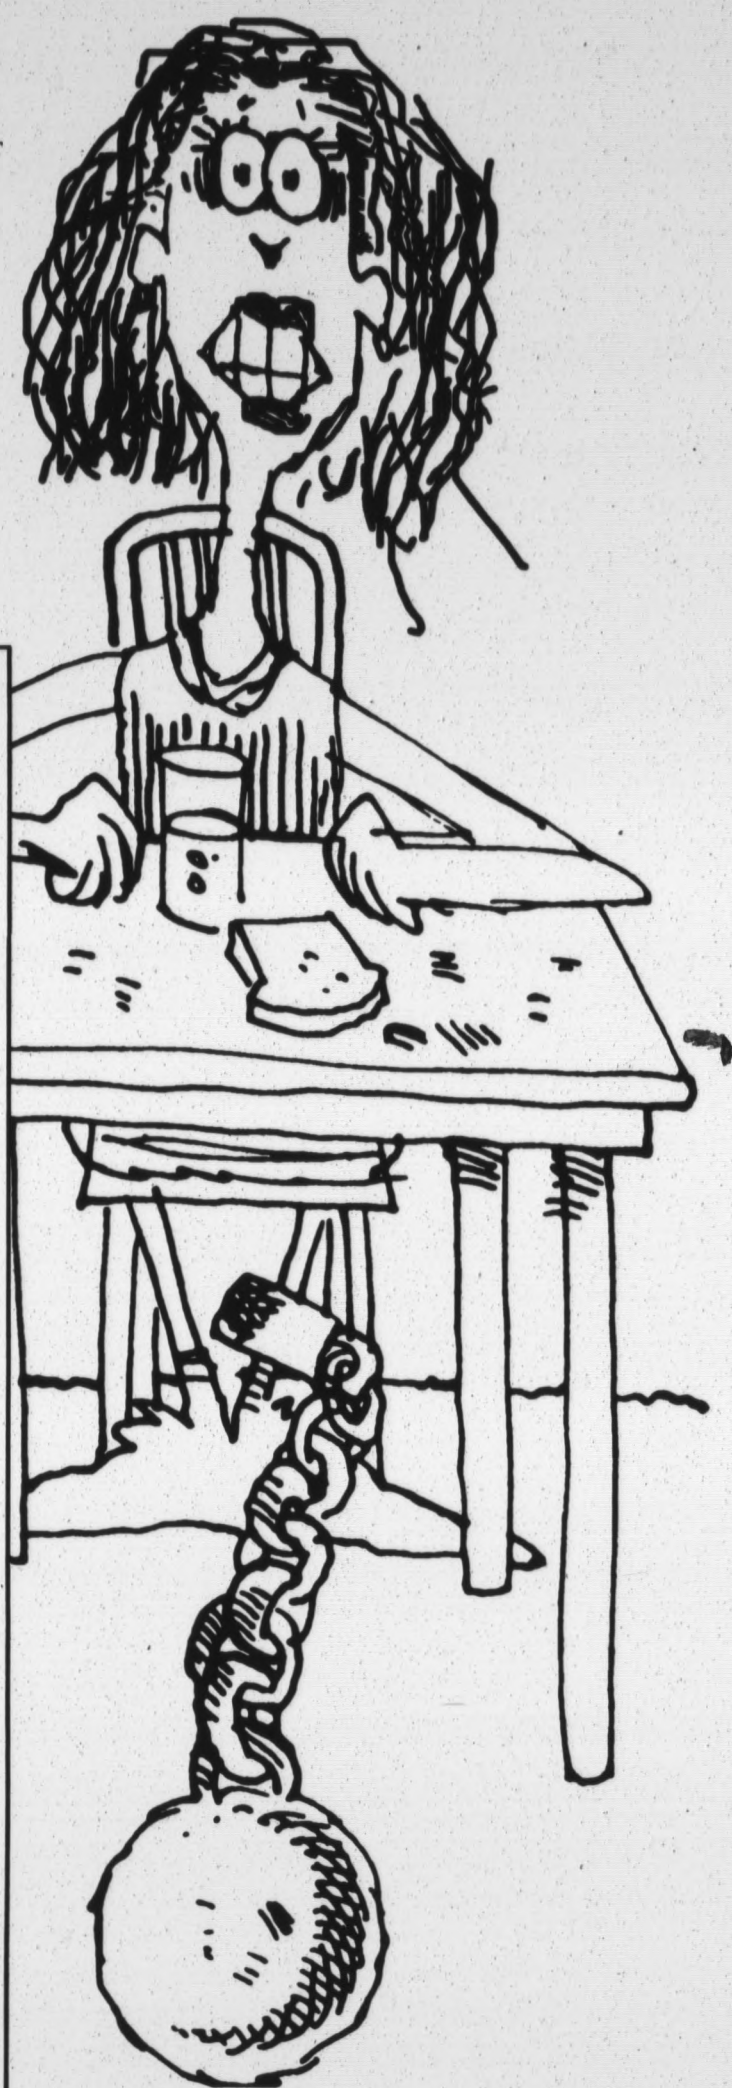

If consumers are having difficulty creating a spending plan for themselves, Hunt does recommend going to a counseling service such as Consumer Credit Counseling.

They are very helpful and she finds that those high price financial service companies aren't much help.

Later this year Hunt will release her third book, Cheap-skate in the Kitchen. Her previously published titles include: Best of Cheap-skate Monthly, The Financially Confident Woman and Cheap-skate Monthly Money Makeover.

"Depending on whether you are paid weekly or monthly is how you should develop your spending plan," Hunt says. "The one thing I would like to stress is that it is important to live within your means. HEALTH WATCH

The facts about high cholesterol

What is cholesterol and why is it dangerous?

- Elevated cholesterol has no symptoms, but it is a major risk factor for coronary heart disease, which kills 500,000 Americans each year.

- Cholesterol is a waxy, fat-like substance that is found in all cells and is used by the body to form cell membranes, certain hormones and other necessary substances.

- Low-density lipoprotein, or "bad" cholesterol, can build up in the arteries and form plaque (blockages). High-density lipoprotein; "good" cholesterol, on the other hand, helps clear away LDL from the arteries.

- The buildup of plaque, called atherosclerosis, causes the arteries to become narrow and hard, making them less efficient at transporting blood throughout the body.

- When atherosclerosis cuts down blood flow to the coronary arteries, angina (recurrent chest pains) can result. When atherosclerosis results in the total blockage of blood flow to the coronary arteries, heart attack results.

What level is considered "high"?

- The National Cholesterol Education Program recommends the following LDL cholesterol level goals:

- For individuals with coronary heart disease: LDL cholesterol less than or equal to 100 mg/dL.

- For individuals who do not have coronary heart disease but who have two or more risk factors other than high LDL cholesterol for coronary heart disease: LDL cholesterol less than 130 mg/dL.

- For individuals who do not have coronary heart disease and who have fewer than two coronary heart disease risk factors other than elevated LDL cholesterol: LDL cholesterol less than 160 mg/dL.

How is high cholesterol effectively managed?

- There are three primary ways to fight high cholesterol — through diet, exercise, and when appropriate, medication.

- To determine whether a diet low in fat and cholesterol and exercise adequately lowers cholesterol, physicians usually recheck patients with coronary heart disease after approximately 12 weeks, and other patients after at least six months.

- In some individuals, changes in diet and exercise may not lower cholesterol to the levels recommended by the NCEP.

- When diet and exercise alone are not effective, cholesterol-lowering medication may be added to the treatment program.

- Despite the demonstrated lifesaving benefits of cholesterol-lowering therapy for patients with high cholesterol and coronary heart diseases, only about 25 percent of eligible Americans are being treated with cholesterol-lowering medication, and about 4 percent are being treated adequately.

Surgery increases survival rates of prostate cancer patients

Prostate surgery can lead to a high prostate-cancer survival rate.

That is the conclusion of scientists at eight U.S. and European medical centers who monitored the long-term survival rates of 2,758 men with prostate cancer, most of whom underwent radical prostatectomies.

"Men with early-stage prostate cancer who have their prostates surgically removed have a high 10-year survival rate," said Dr. Peter Scardino, chairman of the Urology Department at Houston's Baylor College of Medicine, one of the study sites.

For men with prostate cancer, which was early in its development and had not spread beyond the prostate, 94 percent were still cancer-free 10 years after surgery. For those whose prostate cancer was more advanced, post-surgical cancer-free rates ranged from 77 to 80 percent.

"This study was particularly significant because it included long-term results from a large number of men in different parts

How should I massage my gums?

Ask Dr. Scott

By Leonard Scott, D.D.S.

Q: How should I massage my gums? Is there choice of methods?

A: Yes, there is. The first choice: brushing your teeth and gums properly with a soft toothbrush. There are also effective and readily available commercial products which massage the gums as they clean between teeth at the gum line. These are:

1. The Prox-A-Brush, a narrow brush that fits between the teeth;
2. Use of the rubber tip on the toothbrush handle, which is there expressly to massage gums between teeth at the cheek side and tongue side;
3. Stim-U-Dent, a gentle and soft orangewood interdental stimulator; and
4. The Water-Pik, an irrigating device with its pulsating stream of water.

To learn which of these is best for your own mouth, consult your dentist.

Church keeps youth off the streets

By DAMANI DICKERSON
Recorder Correspondent

A collaborative effort between New Birth Missionary Baptist Church, Youth Fair Chance Inc. and Indy Parks is giving near Westside youth a positive place to belong and a safe place for fun and learning.

Toni Jackson, Recreation Coordinator for Youth Fair Chance and Weed and Seed, said, "The purpose of the new rec center is to provide recreational and educational opportunities for kids in the community."

"We want to better serve the community," said Jackson. "This is just one of the ways."

Last Saturday, the rec center celebrated its grand opening with a catered lunch, choir performance, martial arts demonstration and guest speakers, including the Rev. Alfred Brown Jr., pastor of New Birth Missionary Baptist Church.

Brown believes the center intends to assist in the curbing of crime and lift their outreach ministry to a higher degree, ultimately bringing children and their families to the church.

Jackson added, "New Birth has opened their doors on more than just Sundays, because a lot of kids in the area are underserved and can't participate in other programs due to lack of funds."

"The center will enhance the quality of young lives," according to Brown. "This gives young people a constructive after school environment." Brown eagerly continued, describing the newly renovated facility that consists of a library, full-sized gym, stage and game room. He said the doors are open to everyone regardless of race, creed or religious perspective.

Through Indy Parks the rec center is also providing programs in the areas of creative writing, tutoring, fine arts and a chess club.

Brown said, "We want to expose kids to arts and certain aspects of culture they're usually not exposed to."

Issuing an invitation he went on saying, "We need volunteers. We can use anyone who has the time to give back."

The center is located at 2440 N. Harding St. and is open 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays.

OPINION

Are you a Jeckyll and Hyde Christian?

I've pondered the many recent inquiries on what Christian folks do when they leave church on Sunday afternoons. Many calls and letters have addressed the fact that often, good Bible-toting, prayer quoting, gospel singing, Christian folks seem to relish in a "Jeckyll/Hyde" act. After the last "amen" is said on Sunday, Monday through Saturday it's business as usual.

I, myself, have been witness to some of the meanest, contrary and most ornery attitudes ever. I've seen supervisors mistreat subordinates and deal them an unfair hand just to get a leg up in the promotion system or to be accepted by the powers that be.

In corporations across the nation, the cruel knife of "downsizing" is slicing to and fro, seeking who it may devour.

The struggle to survive goes on in both the private and public sectors. As a member of civil service, I've been witness to some pretty "uncivil" disservice" just in the last few months. I've had numerous people — co-workers and non-co-workers — confide in me about their dilemmas in an ever-changing work force. But only recently has the question been posed so frequently — why does it seem that many of the perpetrators of unjust actions, are sitting on some church's rolls.

Why does it seem that many who have the power to initiate change and "do the right thing," are found either actively participating in unjust actions or burying their heads in the sands of apathy and unconcern. It's true that many at the corporate tables of decision-making, have no moral inclination whatsoever. It's true that many at the corporate tables of decision-making, want no moral inclination whatsoever. All of the "goody-two-shoes" business just gets in the way of power and position.

However, I would think — just as my inquisitors think — that those who profess a God-consciousness, would live through that profession each day ... on the job ... off the job ... in church ... out of church, everywhere — every day. It would seem that when those who are "filled with the Holy Ghost" on Sundays and wallowing in that "ol' time religion," would get just a little twinge of discomfort when they knowingly say or do something to hurt someone. It would seem that big dose of the Holy Ghost good Christians get on Sundays, would cause just a moment of reflection before the assassination of someone's character, career or just their peace of mind. It would seem that way. But what do I know? This meddling, busy-body of a writer who constantly opinionates ... from the front pew.

We encourage readers to submit questions and comments for Ethel McCane's "From the Front Pew." Letters should be addressed to Ethel McCane, P.O. Box 18141, Indianapolis 46218.

Beau Williams back in the mix

Back In The Mix: Beau Williams gets back in the thick of the gospel recording scene with the October 11 release of They Need to Know, which marks his recording debut under the INSYNCR Christian Music Company banner. The Salem, Ore.-based label was launched in April, 1995 by Monty Jackson and Jim Huddart. Jackson recorded two albums as a member of the Jackson Family (no kin to the famed Jacksons) on Command Records in the late 80s. Co-owner Jim Huddart, is a Christian entrepreneur and church official who put his business expertise to use with the label. Together — one white and the other Black — they hope to cross racial barriers; bond together the body of Christ with music designed to minister to the heart. Also shipping to retail from INSYNCR was gospel jazz guitarist Tim Bowman's Love, Joy, Peace. Both artists were showcased during the August meeting of the Gospel Music Workshop of America. Williams was the label's first signee. They Need to Know is his first album in two years. However, regular exposure on the Trinity Broadcast Network has helped him to maintain a high profile. "We began marketing in September and there's quite a buzz," notes independent marketing and promotion specialist, Barry Martin, who was retained to work the project. "With this album — which is more contemporary — we're trying to broaden his reach, so we've shipped product to adult contemporary, inspirational and Gospel radio formats in an effort to reach the total marketplace and thus far the response has been very good". For now, the label — which hopes to sign somewhere around eight acts by the end of next year — seems to be right on track. In August they signed Grammy-winning vocalist, Daniel Winans. A project is due out in February.

On the Christian news front: Tammy Faye Messner, former wife of fallen televangelist Jim Bakker, tells her side of the fall from glory in a new book, Tammy, Telling It My Way which also lends itself to some pretty negative revelations about other famed televangelists, including Jimmy Falwell. In the book, due out later this month, she says he

Church nurses and ushers program launched

The American Red Cross of Greater Indianapolis was recently awarded a $1,000 grant from the national organization of the Red Cross to launch the Church Nurses and Ushers Committee program in Indianapolis. The program is one of 10 top Red Cross cultural diversity programs being replicated throughout the country with the support of the Whirlpool Foundation.

Through this program, the local Red Cross will form partnerships with churches in the African-American community and make health and safety training available to church nurses and ushers who care for members of their congregations during times of illness, distress and death.

"A nurturing spirit and desire to help others are prerequisites to serve on a church nurses guild or ushers auxiliary. This new Red Cross program will offer important skills and knowledge for individuals who have that sense of calling," said Candace Woodward, a volunteer who leads minority recruitment efforts.

The Red Cross Minority Initiative Committee will be working closely with area churches to identify which types of training are needed most at this time. The Cincinnati Area Chapter of the Red Cross, which launched the Church Nurses and Ushers Committee in 1992, has since trained youth and adults to administer CPR and first aid, educate their ministries about HIV/AIDS, manage disaster shelters in their neighborhoods and promote healthier lifestyles through proper nutrition and stress reduction.

God will help us if we help ourselves

With Allah's (God's) help, I will attempt to challenge you, the public.

My thinking is that too many of us are studying day and night for ways to side step and excuse ourselves from our rightful responsibilities. I am referring to the neglect in pushing ourselves toward higher education.

The opportunity in America for progress is just as great or even greater than it was yesterday.

Regardless of who is in the White House — before we continue looking for excuses because of the political climate — please tell us what you have done to qualify yourself for a good paying job?

Or maybe you can produce a job for yourself with a little help.

Better yet, do you have strength to force yourself away from the TV set and the music.

I believe more time can and should be spent on studying positive materials that feed our brains with the knowledge that will take us to the top of society with God's help.

However we have to strive for the better things in life. I think most of us want and need to better our conditions. In Islam, men, women and children are instructed to seek knowledge from the cradle to the grave. I am sure there are other religions that instruct the same.

So if we expect help from people that are already established, then we have to show ourselves as an assets, not a liability.

Dear people, in these serious times we all need each other's help in sharing and talking about qualifying ourselves for a better and brighter future. This kind of communication will inspire others.

I believe in my heart, better yet, I know in my heart from experience that God will help us as we try honestly to help ourselves.

Most Muslims are working on this and other serious issues day and night and we don't mind working with others in the city, to help make life better for everybody. We invite you to come and share with us ideas that will bring on healthy change.

Our meeting place is 2040 E. 46th St.; we meet at 1 p.m. Sundays. Our phone number is

Sincerely,
John Muhammad

To Brother Muhammad,

You are right on target with your insights, encouragement, and invitation for people to be more aggressive and self-sufficient. Our common bonds and struggles should obligate us to continue striving for better and clearer communications.

Your letter reminds us of the words of Allah (God) in the Holy Qur'an — Allah will not change the condition of a people until they first change what is in their hearts.

Muslims, Christians, Jews, and other people of faith are coming closer together, overcoming the past barriers that have for so long divided the believers in God. Yes, there are varying belief systems among the Muslim, Christians and Jews. Yet, people of faith are still coming together based upon striving to please our Creator as we work on that which is good for the whole of humanity.

At a recent lecture in Chicago Heights, Ill., Imam W. Deen Mohammed spoke on the commonality between Christianity, Judaism, and Islam, in which he highlighted that all three are monotheistically based.

"Don't get confused with the Christian's belief in the trinity. The purpose of the trinity is to focus on the oneness," shared Imam Mohammed. "The son said, 'I am not greater than the Father.' And the 'sent' is not greater than the 'sender.'"

Brother John we pray that the words in your letter are appreciated by all good hearted and good minded people. Those who are seeking the good from life with the hope to establish a good life for all people.

Please submit all inquiries to: Al-Islam In America, c/o Mikal Saahir, Daniel Mohammed Islamic Center, 2040 E. 46th St., Indianapolis, IN 46205.

Four area female basketball stars commit to colleges

Four of Indianapolis' best female basketball players have decided where they will play college basketball next year, but only one will remain in state.

Cathedral's Katrina Merriweather and her teammate LeAnne Eddington have committed to out of state schools.

Merriweather will attend the University of Cincinnati and Eddington will attend Eastern Michigan University.

Also agreeing to attend the University of Cincinnati is Warren Central's Tamara Douglass.

Perry Meridian's Katie Douglas has decided to attend Purdue University.

Lawrence Central beats Warren Central in overtime 27-21

By JIM NELSON
Staff Writer

Learning how to overcome adversity is one of the many things football coaches hope the young men they work with learn during the course of the season.

If that is the case, then consider all of Tim Barthel's Lawrence Central Bears "A" students. Not only did the Bears have to overcome obstacles during the regular season, the team also had to overcome obstacles during the second half of the opening round of Sectional play against Warren Central.

Forget Lawrence Central built up a 21-0 halftime lead last Friday night only to watch Warren Central score 21 points in the fourth quarter to tie the game and force the overtime session.

Forget Lawrence Central entered the season with a lot of expectations surrounding their program and the possibility of the Bears raising their level of play to match that of area powers Carmel and Ben Davis.

Forget Lawrence Central got off to an 0-2 start with losses to both Warren Central and Cathedral.

But don't forget the Bears have learned how to overcome adversity.

"Just the way these kids have handled real life situations has been amazing," said Lawrence Central head coach Tim Barthel. "They have handled themselves in the face of adversity."

Talk about overcoming adversity. When the game was on the line, Lawrence Central had to play without two of their best players, Damien Artis and Jamil Abdullah, who both sustained injuries during the game that kept them on the sidelines while the game was decided in overtime.

When the Lawrence Central Bears really needed a big play they got it from one of their smallest players — twice.

Seth Morales is listed at 5'11 and 167 pounds, but no one on his team came up bigger in the overtime session than he did.

Not only did Morales make the defensive stop that denied Warren Central the chance to score in the overtime session, he also caught the game winning touchdown pass from quarterback Jon Bethuram to make the final score 27-21 in overtime. In case you forgot, the Bears opened a season with a 28-21 loss to Warren Central, that's how evenly matched the two teams are, but the difference in the game seemed to be the confidence that comes from knowing where your teammates are going to be when the game is on the line.

Morales and Bethuram know what to expect from each other.

They should, they have played football together since sixth grade.

The way the Bears have managed to turn their friendships on the field into something much more positive than just wins and losses is another sign of how the football program overcomes adversity on a weekly basis.

After Morales' stop denied Warren Central a chance to score, he lined up at wide receiver on a play that fooled everyone, especially Warren Central defensive back Justin Smith, who was called for pass interference on the game winning score.

"He was playing me all night, I just made a fake to the outside and cut to the inside," Morales said when describing the play that won the game for the Bears.

But despite catching the pass that advanced his team to the next round of tournament play, Morales was most proud of his defensive stop.

"I barely got to him," Morales said. "Sometimes I need to work on my defense."

While Morales was being modest, his quarterback wasn't.

"This was a great win," Bethuram said. "The defense was spectacular."

So spectacular in fact, Bethuram said the feeling of watching Morales apply the game saving tackle was so exciting it was hard to describe. Bethuram said he knew after the stop the team would find a way to score.

"I always say when I get in the huddle

Lawrence Central at Lawrence North highlights Week 2 of Sectionals

By JIM NELSON
Staff Writer

Only half of the Indiana high school football teams still have a chance to claim a state title in one of the five football classes as Sectional play enters its second week. After this weekend, that number will be cut in half again as teams continue to make their way to the RCA Dome. The next two weeks will produce major upsets, but look for area teams to be represented in at least four out of the five classes at the RCA Dome in late November.

Class 5A

Carmel (8-1) at Broad Ripple (2-7)

The Broad Ripple Rockets, a team with only one regular season victory, surprised Lafayette Jefferson on the road last week and now the Rockets will host Carmel this week at Broad Ripple. The Rockets are in position to pull off the biggest upset of the year if they are able to extend their winning streak to two games by defeating an always tough Carmel team. Despite Broad Ripple's heroics of a week ago, their season will come to an end after this game. The Rockets do have an exciting player in freshman quarterback Kenny Sanders and they will be a team to watch next year.

Prediction: Carmel 34, Broad Ripple 7.

Kokomo (9-0) at North Central (7-2)

The Kokomo Wildkats will have their toughest game of the season this week as they travel to North Central to take on the Panthers. North Central's two losses were to Ben Davis and Carmel, teams that are much tougher than any Kokomo has played. Although Kokomo features both a strong running and passing game, so does North Central. Kokomo's junior quarterback is not as good as North Central's senior Matt Gonso, so the Panthers may be able to claim a slight edge in that department.

Prediction: Too close to call.

Arsenal Technical (5-3) at Ben Davis (8-1)

The interesting thing about this matchup is that the Arsenal Technical Titans are as big as the Ben Davis Giants and they are as fast as the Ben Davis Giants. The question is are the Titans as strong as the Giants are? The answer unfortunately for Tech is no. But then again, no one in Indiana is as physically strong as Ben Davis, but this game will be close for a while. Tech is that good and they have really been in almost every game they have played this year. Ben Davis, however, is on a mission and the passing game seems to be improving, just as Giants head coach Dick Dullaghan said it would.

Prediction: Ben Davis 28, Arsenal Technical 14.

Northwest (5-4) at Franklin Central (5-4)

The Northwest Space Pioneers had no trouble with Southport last Thursday night when their early game got this year's Sectional tournament underway, while the Franklin Central Flashes had no trouble with Perry Meridian. Both teams have identical 5-4 records and that's just how evenly they match up. Northwest's running game will be enough to take away the slight edge playing at home will give the Flashes.

Prediction: Too close to call.

Pacers get ready for 1996-97 season

By JAMES M. KEOUGH JR.

The dress rehearsals are over. Rosters have been trimmed. And it's time to kick it live.

After the free-agent frenzy, preseason tune-ups and endless anticipation, the National Basketball Association is set to open its regular season this weekend.

Several notable veteran players will wear different uniforms this season, while rookies will look to launch successful professional careers.

The face of the NBA is constantly changing and evolving.

However, the more things change the more they seem to stay the same.

Regardless of age and injuries, the Chicago Bulls are still the team to beat.

Dennis Rodman will be himself.

And the Indiana Pacers must still rely on defense and rebounding to win.

The Pacers will start the year with key players injured and still have questions at the point guard and small forward positions.

The Pacers added several new faces to the mix in the off season. Erick Dampier, who was drafted in the first round in this year's draft, is expected to play back-up center. Reggie Williams and Jalen Rose, who were obtained in a trade with the Denver Nug-

North Central, Carmel both look for 3-peats

Recorder Staff Report

The North Central Panthers boys and the Carmel Greyhounds girls soccer teams have one thing in common — they are the only programs to win state titles since soccer became an officially recognized sport by the Indiana High School Athletic Association two years ago.

Now North Central and Carmel both hope to three-peat this weekend at Kuntz Stadium in Indianapolis when the 3rd Annual Soccer State Finals get underway.

North Central (16-3-1) will take on South Bend St. Joseph's (12-2-6) on the West Field at 10 a.m. while Fort Wayne Canterbury (19-2-1) battles Washington (20-2-1).

Carmel (18-0-2) battles Homestead (16-2-1) at noon on the West field while Evansville Memorial (17-3) takes on Penn (16-5) on the East field.

North Central is led by seniors Kei Tennyson and Matt Fundenberger, the team's two top scoring threats, and the Panthers haven't allowed a goal in five tournament games.

The Carmel girls have allowed only six goals all season and the players who scored the game winning goals in each of their previous two trips to the state championship game are still on the roster.

Local teams capture volleyball Sectionals

Several area volleyball programs have advanced to the Regional round of tournament play with hopes of claiming the last single class state volleyball title before teams are assigned according to size next year.

Muncie Burris, one of the smaller schools in the state with just over 400 students, has one of the best volleyball programs in the country. Muncie Burris was ranked No. 1 in Indiana and No. 1 in the nation by USA Today, before losing last weekend to Muncie Central, the second-ranked team in Indiana.

Locally, Indianapolis parochial schools Cathedral, Chatard and Roncalli have all advanced to Regional play. Also advancing were Ben Davis, Perry Meridian and Carmel.

Regional contests take place Saturday, Nov. 2 and matches begin at 11 a.m. and noon and finals begin at 7:30 p.m. The first team listed is the home team.

At Lawrence Central: Ben Davis (18-18) vs. Avon (33-2); Chatard (21-11) vs. Cathedral (24-6).

At Greenwood: Triton Central (17-10) vs. Roncalli (32-2); Perry Meridian (24-7) vs. Center Grove (21-12).

At Anderson Highland: Oak Hill (26-9) vs. Carmel (24-11); Delta (31-4) vs. Frankton (23-9).

The Semi-State rounds will be held Nov. 9 and the state finals will be held Nov. 16 at Market Square Arena.

At the state finals, the preliminary rounds will be held at 11 a.m. and noon and the finals will be held at 8 p.m.

Area cross country teams advance

Area boys and girls teams advancing to the Semi-State round of high school cross county competition have been determined.

Boys teams participating in the Franklin Central Semi-State, to be held at 10:45 a.m. at Southeastway Park in Indianapolis on Saturday, Nov. 2 include: Ben Davis, Brebeuf, Carmel, Center Grove, Clinton Prairie, Columbus East, Columbus North, Connersville, Franklin, Jennings County, Lawrence Central, Lawrence North, Noblesville, North Central, Pendleton Heights, Plainfield, Shelbyville, Southport, Warren Central and Westfield.

The top time by an area athlete entering the Semi-State round was turned in by Ben Davis' Fasil Bizuneh with a time of 15:29.

In girls competition, local teams advancing to the Semi-State round include: Anderson Highland, Ben Davis, Brebeuf, Carmel, Center Grove, Columbus East, Columbus North, Connersville, Franklin, Hamilton Southeastern, Jennings County, Lawrence Central, Lawrence North, Noblesville, North Central, Oldenburg Academy, Perry Meridian, Pike, Southport and Westfield.

The top time by an area athlete entering the Semi-State round was turned in by North Central's Kelly Keene with a time of 14:56.

Both the boys and the girls state finals in cross country will be held on Saturday, Nov. 9 at Conner Prairie in Fishers. The top five teams and the top 15 individuals from each of the four Semi-States advance to the state finals.

Prediction: Zionsville 34, Danville 17.

Arlington (5-3) at Richmond (6-3)

The Arlington Golden Knights have lost three consecutive games after capturing their second consecutive Indianapolis Public Schools Athletic Conference football title. Arlington has the same record the team had one year ago, with wins and losses occurring in the same weeks. In 1995, after winning five straight games, the Golden Knights lost their last three and then lost their first round tournament game as well to finish with a 5-4 record. History will repeat itself once again because Arlington still has not learned to win on the road.

Prediction: Richmond 28, Arlington 12.

Lawrence Central (7-2) at Lawrence North (6-3)

The Lawrence Central Bears are currently riding a seven-game winning streak and the dodged a bullet when they beat Warren Central in overtime last week. The Sectional crown can easily go to the Bears if both of their running backs, senior Damien Artis and junior Jamil Abdullah are healthy. Before the Bears can start thinking about a Sectional championship they will have to beat their arch rivals, the Lawrence North Wildcats once again. The game is at Lawrence North and that should make it tougher for the Bears, but if Lawrence Central is healthy, they should have just enough to pull this one out.

Prediction: Lawrence Central 28, Lawrence North 21.

Class 4A

Brownsburg (6-3) vs. Cathedral (9-0) at Arlington

Many area football coaches and fans are starting to realize something we have known here at The Indianapolis Recorder newspaper all season, and that is the Cathedral Fighting Irish are probably the best team in Indiana high school football, regardless of class size. The Irish will be at their home away from home, Arlington High School, to take on Brownsburg. It should be another victory for Cathedral.

Prediction: Cathedral 48, Brownsburg 14.

Class 3A

Zionsville (9-0) at Danville (7-2)

This will be a tough game for Zionsville, but it will be good preparation for an eventual contest against Roncalli. Expect the Eagles to soar once

Roncalli (8-1) at Beech Grove (6-3)

The Roncalli Rebels know how to win at tournament time, and that is the big difference in this contest. Although Beech Grove is much improved over previous years, the Hornets have not experienced an onslaught like they will see from the Roncalli ground attack.

Prediction: Roncalli 34, Beech Grove 21.

Class 2A

Tipton (7-2) vs. Chatard (5-4) at Manual

Although the Tipton blue Devils have a better record than the Chatard Trojans, Tipton did not play as tough a schedule. As a result, Tipton will have a difficult time dealing with the speed and toughness of the young Trojans team which has improved a great deal since the season began.

Prediction: Chatard 20, Tipton 14.

Speedway (5-4) at Cloverdale (7-2)

The Speedway Sparkplugs will have a tough time in this contest, but the strength of their schedule will help the Sparkplugs claim this win on the road. Besides, the Sparkplugs are starting to look like one of those teams that will catch all the right breaks all the way to the RCA Dome.

Prediction: Speedway 14, Cloverdale 6.

Class A

Ritter (0-8) at Riverton Parke (4-3)

The Ritter Raiders will need a miracle to keep from joining Scecina as the only Marion County team to go through the entire regular season and tournament season without a win. Don't expect any miracles in this contest.

Prediction: Riverton Parke 24, Ritter 7.

Sheridan (6-3) at Tri-West (9-0) — WNDY-TV Game of the Week @ 8 p.m.

The Tri-West Bruins and the Sheridan Blackhawks will be the featured game this week on WNDY-TV 23. Tri-West has outscored their opponents this year 328-71 and finished as the state runners-up in 1995. They are trying to make it back to the RCA Dome and will have to get past Sheridan to do so.

Prediction: Tri-West 24, Sheridan 21.

we're going all the way to the end zone," he said.

Both players complemented Warren Central on an outstanding game.

"They played good defense," Morales said.

"The had an all-around good game," Bethuram added.

Their coach agreed.

"They've had such a year, and to come back. Those coaches do a great job," Barthel said.

Now the Bears get the chance to go against their biggest rival once again, the Lawrence North Wildcats.

"That game will be like this game, two good football teams. I just hope we're full go," Barthel said.

"Lawrence North is always tough. That's our arch-rival. It's going to be a real tough game," Morales added.

Despite falling short, Warren Central head coach Dave Shelbourne said the outcome could have been better for his team had his Warriors not made so many early mistakes, like dropped passes.

"We made no blackboard adjustments, we just made attitude adjustments," Shelbourne said of his team after the Warriors found themselves trailing 21-0 at the half.

gets for Mark Jackson and Ricky Pierce, are expected to add athleticism and versatility to the team. Jerome Allen is expected to challenge Travis Best and Haywoode Workman for minutes at point guard.

The addition of free agent power forward Brent Scott is intended to provide more scoring off the bench from the post.

Dampier and Williams have been plagued with injuries during training camp. Starting center Rik Smits is recovering from foot surgery and reserve forwards Eddie Johnson and Duane Ferrell are recovering from leg injuries.

The team will start the season without the services of Smits, Dampier or Johnson. Antonio Davis will once again be forced into the starting center role for the injured Smits.

According to head coach Larry Brown, Best is steadily improving at point guard, but needs to be more consistent. Brown also said consistent scoring from the small forward position is critical.

He also has ongoing concerns about the team's ability to rebound and defend.

Again, the more things change the more they seem to stay the same.

Is this year's version of the Pacers ready for the parity the Eastern Conference has to offer?

Can they compete with the Bulls or Atlanta Hawks or anybody else in the Central Division?

Time will tell.

"We have a lot of work to do. I don't think we are anywhere near being able to play," said Brown, after the Pacers pounded the San Antonio Spurs last weekend in Market Square Arena in the team's preseason finale.

"But we are making a lot of progress. We have a lot of guys that don't understand everybody wants to run, but they don't understand the commitment you have to make to do that.

"We have got to get better defending the post. We have to get better on the boards where we rebound offensively other than just Dale (Davis) and Tony (Antonio Davis). We've got to get our small forward on the offensive board."

It is the offensive output from the small forward position that has Brown most concerned.

"We have to get a small forward who is committed to run and rebound the ball who is an offensive threat. I think we have it, but (Derrick McKey) has to make up his mind to do it. And I don't know from one day to the next what is happening there," added Brown.

According to Dale Davis, who elevated his offensive game in training camp, the entire front line will have to pick it up offensively due to the team's injury situation.

"We have guys that are capable of scoring, but we are not used to it," Davis said. "Antonio, myself and also Brent. We haven't been asked to score but we are going to have to step it up."

Urban revitalization underway on near Northside

By BARATO BRITT
Staff Writer

Drugs, gang warfare and crime scenes have been the common portrayal of urban neighborhoods for several decades. When driving through the Highland vicinity and Kenwood area, one might have found themselves speeding through the once dilapidated area on their way to the commercialized zones just a few blocks away. Surely not a prime sight for potential homeowners.

The once thriving community was losing its identity to both crime and corporate America. Gentrification was merely a fantasy until the arrival of the Near North Development Corp.

Armed with its newest strategic community revitalization plan, Near North is making strides in increasing ownership and home rehabilitation. Cindy Murry, Near North housing coordinator, is confident that with time the targeted area will overcome the sting that has been put on it.

"Homeowners have an investment there," said Murry.

"People are interested in their community and there are quality homes available."

Founded in 1977 for the purpose of urban revitalization of the near North side, their goal is to renovate and rebuild up to 100 homes over a three year period in the area between 21st and 30th streets, Shriver and Meridian.

With the inception of the Incremental Rehab and Homeownership plan, Near North furthers external improvement of the urban area. Designed to help homeowners refurbish their homes, the plan focuses on the exterior of a home but will also repair internal problems, if needed. This is all done at no cost to the homeowner.

"We've gone in and said 'We will help you,'" said Murry. "We also said we would do it for free and the people are benefiting from it."

Unlike the process of gentrification, the Near North plan does not run people of low socioeconomic status out of the neighborhood, it merely makes quality homes available for everyone who is dedicated to the area. These new homes have sales prices which low and moderate-income families will find extremely competitive. Homes range from two-stories to ranches, with a variety of floor plans that average 1,100 square feet. Also, all homes are fully carpeted with a full package of kitchen appliances and electronic alarm systems.

Among the biggest concerns of potential buyers is the reputation of the community. Known for its volatile atmosphere, the urban neighborhood has seen many people leave it fearing possible danger.

In recent months, the corporation has worked tirelessly alongside neighborhood organizations to bring people back to a community in which everyone once felt safe in.

"It takes people with a vision," said Murry. "It may not be something that's going to happen tomorrow but it is starting. People I have sold homes to are being rebuilt and are making a positive change." In less than two years Murry has sold over 30 homes. It's not just a vision anymore, it is a reality. Agency explained seller, buyer and limited agency

The agency relationship is based on one person representing the interests of another person. Real estate agents are licensed by the state to represent a person for the sale or purchase of real estate. The responsibilities of the agent are defined and restricted by state law, the Realtor's Code of Ethics and general principles of agency law.

Very logically, when a person is selling a home, his agent is called the seller's agent. For many years, all agents worked for the seller either as the seller's agent or as a sub-agent for the seller. That meant that the interests of the seller was the primary goal for all agents, even if they had the buyer for the property.

Locally, buyer agency has been in effect about two years. Buyers can now select an agent who represents their needs exclusively. This agent is called a buyer's agent. The estate agent's fee is still paid by the seller as it has always been. The client and agent should discuss agency and decide if the client wants the agent to act as a buyer's agent or as a subagent for the seller. Agency duties are owed to the seller in all transactions where there is no buyer's agent. It makes sense to have a buyer's agent represent you. Even if you are building a home, you need a buyer's agent to represent you.

YOUR REAL ESTATE ADVISOR

By MILDRED WILKINS

Limited agency arises when a broker or agent has a relationship with two clients who have opposing goals (buyer and seller). Then both clients must be notified and seller an agreement that they want to continue the relationship. Then the agent must treat the interests of the buyer and seller equally.

Please write for The Consumer Handbook for an expanded explanation of agency.

We encourage readers to submit topics, questions or requests for free material from "Your Real Estate Advisor." Letters should be addressed to: Mildred Wilkins, c/o F.C. Tucker Co., 3405 E. 86th St., Indianapolis, IN 46240.

Summit 2000 to look at Black economic well-being

By CARLA SANDERS
NNPA Communications Staff

Vowing to develop a blueprint to help ensure African-American well-being into the next century, African-American experts on the economy, technology, entrepreneurship, capital formation and housing met in a special summit in Washington, D.C., in September.

"The Million Man March was, I think, a very historic event. It was also one of those issues that said 'we have a lot of people with a lot of concerns,' but there didn't appear to be any action orientation around things that were economically related," Roderick K. Gaines, chairman of Summit 2000 told the NNPA.

"As a result, we decided to come together and create a series of discussions around economic development. We also decided this was not the kind of activity that could take place in one meeting, so we said very early on that the discussion should take place for several years from 1995 until the year 2000," said Gaines, a vice president at Wells Fargo Bank.

Summit participants attended sessions on the economy from the African-American perspective. They also examined the role of entrepreneurship and the impact of new technology on our economy and on the future.

According to the Economic Viability Report on Inner-City Communities compiled by Operation Hope Inc., an organization founded and chaired by John Bryant, who is also on the board of the Southern Pacific Thrift and Loan Association, African Americans make up approximately 11.8 percent of the population and spend $30 billion a year on travel; produce more than 20 percent of the $495 million worth of albums sold by retailers across the nation; purchase 25 percent of all Cadillacs and movie tickets; represent 70 percent of all cognac sales and spend $6 billion annually on tobacco products. In addition, while African Americans comprise less than 11 percent of the population, they buy 19 percent of all cosmetics and beauty aids, and 34 percent of all hair care products, he said.

In all, the Black community contributes more than $400 billion annually to the gross national product of the United States, a sum larger than the economies of many nations in the world.

"It's not about handouts," Michael Brown, son of the late commerce secretary Ron Brown, told participants at Summit's closing dinner held to benefit the Ronald H. Brown Foundation. "It's about a hand up. It's about making sure we can all participate. It's about getting the work open, and that's all we're asking for. That's what Summit 2000 is all about. That's what my father worked for."

"We need some reconditioning in our communities," said Gloria Jackson, an organizational psychologist. "I like to think of the inner city, urban and rural communities as micro communities. I think that when we look at the micro community we see the only way that we're going to be successful is to make sure that we have a type of change oriented strategy that will, in fact, touch the 'have nots.' So it's a philosophy of the 'haves' facilitating self-sufficiency training, education for individuals, families and communities through their grass roots organizations," she added.

The closing dinner also honored African-American leaders who have demonstrated the qualities of the former commerce secretary. Robert L. Johnson, chairman of BET Holdings received the Pioneer Award; Congressman Charles Rangel, (D-NY), received the award for courage; Charles Johnson, president and CEO, Active Corp. received the Leadership Award; and Dr. Renaldo Jensen received the Vision Award on behalf of Ford Motor Co.

This Summit's co-convening organizations included the Congress of National Black Churches, the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation, the Joint Center of Political and Economic Studies, the NAACP, the National Association of Black Accountants, the National Association of Real Estate Brokers, the National Association of Securities Professionals, the National Bar Association, the National Council of Negro Women, the National League of Cities, the National Medical Association, the National Minority Supplier Development Council, the National Organization of Black County Officials, the National Urban League, and the Opportunity Funding Corporation. Corporate sponsors were the Shell Oil Company and Wells Fargo Bank.

Summit 2000 plans to take its message and expertise to regional conferences between the annual conferences. For more information call Summit 2000 at (800) 921-9363.

MEMORIALS PERSONALS LEGALS

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

JAMES T. SMITH
(Uncle Jimmy) who passed away October 29, 1974. The one we loved was called away. God took him home, it was His will. But in our hearts he liveth still. Dearly loved, missed and remembered by: The Family

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

who passed November 4, 1992. Though the years may be passing, Thoughts of you are forever lasting. Loving memories so real so dear, Makes us feel that you're still near. Your dreams for us we shall fulfill, Your love surrounds and comforts us still. With all our love, Delores, Leon, Joyce, Rosietta, Pearl

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

who departed this life January 20, 1984. Lonely is our home without him, Sadly do we feel our loss. But God alone has helped us well, To bear our heavy cross. He had no time to say farewell, He said goodbye to none. The Heavenly gates were opened wide, And the silent voice said "Come." Sadly missed by: Children: Carlton, Patricia, Anna, Gwendolyn and Paula

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

who passed November 1, 1990. A silent thought, A secret tear, Keeps his memory ever dear. Sadly missed: Wife: Emma Frink

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

RONALD E. LUCAS "LUKE"
who passed November 3, 1993. Always Loved, Always Remembered. Sadly missed by: Mother: Anna Lucas Brown, Father: Edward Lucas, Jr., Daughter: Ronetta Lucas And Family

IN LOVING MEMORY OF

BESSIE F. BOWIE
For Your Birthday Mother November 3rd. You left us on December 4, 1992. Behind our smile there is often some tears, It broke our hearts to lose you the day God took you home. To your grave we will always go, The flowers we place with care, But no one know the heartache when we turned and left you there. We love you Mother and miss you so bad. You Children: Clinton Ford, Preston Ford, Willie Mae Strong, Eva J. Price, Jackie Benson

It's So Hard To Say Good-By

MR. PETER JOHNSON
July 5, 1969 - October 28, 1995. A year has passed and the memory is fresh in our minds. And we remember we did not thank everyone. So we would like to take this opportunity to say how much we appreciated whatever you did to comfort us and see us through. Thank You All The Johnson's Louis, Georgia & Jason

who passed November 3, 1991. Treasured thoughts of one so dear Often bring a silent tear... Thoughts return to scenes passed... Time rolls on but memories last. Sadly missed by: The Nelson Family

Hello freedom.

Sure, there are plenty of practical reasons to buy a VA HOME. Low down payments (many VA HOMES require as little as $500 down). You don't have to be a vet. And competitive VA vendee financing is available to qualified buyers. But the real reason to buy one is because it's all yours.

Paid for by the Marion County Democratic Party, Natalie Bruner, Treasurer

Democrats, Building Bridges To The Future!

Democrats, Building Bridges To The Future!

As a teacher, Billie Breaux understands that by educating our youth today, we will prepare them to enter the workforce tomorrow.

As a legislator, Billie Breaux has worked to make sure that the work our students do in schools today will transfer to a good job tomorrow.

Billie Breaux understands that with jobs we can create opportunity. With jobs we can provide hope for tomorrow.

Saving jobs is important, too! In the lengthy battle over the last state budget, Senator Billie Breaux fought for and won the increase in state funding that allowed I. P. S. to rehire hundreds of laid-off teachers and workers!

Billie has fought for education at all levels. She has worked for "Step Ahead," a program that prepares pre-school children to learn when they enter school, as well as "Step Beyond," the job training program Billie designed while in the Senate to update the skills of those whose formal educations have already ended.

As your State Senator, Billie Breaux will continue to fight for new and better jobs!

GLENN HOWARD has served this community in many ways, participating in many different organizations, and contributing to a multitude of causes which are striving to make Indianapolis a better place for us all. He has served on the boards of Meals on Wheels, Indianapolis Housing Strategy, Indianapolis Campaign for Healthy Babies, and Indiana State Black Expo, among others. Glenn has also had extensive executive experience, having served as a City-County Councilman (9th District), as President of the Indianapolis Chapter of Black Expo, and President of UNWA Local Development Corporation, Co-Chair of the King•Walker•Wilkins• Young Awards Banquet, and The Lee Elder Junior Golf Program..

GLENN HOWARD has a proven record of speaking for the people and being an advocate for neighborhoods. He believes that being a public service is a serious trust— not to be taken lightly—since we all support state and local government through the various taxes we pay. This is also why he believes that the needs of the taxpayers should come before any tax breaks for big business or special incentives for the rich to get richer. Glenn believes that public servants should listen to their constituents—and he practices what he preaches: his phone number is 923-1101, 261-8999, or 232-9434—call him anytime!

GLENN HOWARD works at Indianapolis Power and Light Company in Community/Public Affairs. He is married to Florence Howard, and they have two children, Tamira Lynn Davis, and Glenn Lamont Howard, Jr., and belongs to the Barnes United Methodist Church.

Representative Mae Dickinson cares for every citizen in her district she has dedicated her public life to a variety of important causes, including job discrimination, child protection, laws and educational opportunities for all.

The General Assembly has no greater advocate for children and the less fortunate than Mae Dickinson. In addition to her tenure as a state representative, Mae is active at volunteer in a number of charitable organizations. She believes her job as a public official does not end when she leaves the Statehouse.

Representative Dickinson has lived in same neighborhood for 20 years and currently serves on the board of directors for Devington Community Development Corporation, Devington Communities Association, the Indiana State Board for Co-Ordination of Child Care Regulations and others.

A state representative since 1992, Mae Dickinson was quality inspector for General Motors Truck and Bus Division before her recent retirement. She is a member of UAW Local #23 and served as chairperson of the community Services Committee. Representative Dickinson also serves as a Democratic Ward Chairperson and precinct committee-person and spent three years on the Community Action Against Poverty Executive Board.

Representative Mae Dickinson will continue to make her constituents a top priority if she is re-elected to the General Assembly. And she will continue to serve as a voice for those who feel they have lost their voice in state government.
